Hello,

This is Monica, the girl who won your donated calf at the Lufkin show. Blind Faith is doing good up at the Heads place right now, she was branded with our brand a week or so ago and I attached a photo of her and her brand. As for me I moved into my dorm about a week ago and got spoiled because I was the only one here for awhile, the band members had to be here a week before everyone else, to practice for the football games. The week of practice is over now and my roommates moved in, I share the dorm with 5 other girls. It sounds bad but it has 3 bed rooms and a bathroom in each of the bedrooms, so there are 2 people to a room and bathroom but we share a kitchen / living room, like an apartment. The college I am going to is called Georgia Southern its in Statesboro, GA. The first few nights were the hardest, I didn't know anyone here and no one else was coming for like a week. I made a friend in the trombone section though and me and her have been hanging out, keeping each other company. Its very pretty here, lots of trees and red brick buildings, there are magnolia trees over 3 stories high! They said that spring is very pretty, but they say I need to go get thicker jackets for the winter. : ) My nicknames here are Texas and Hook'em. I like the first nickname better, everyone thinks its so cool that I own longhorns. Classes start Monday, and I am super excited, I will let y'all know how those go in the next letter.

Truly Yours,

Monica Bourg
